Brewer Crowd Larger Than Wallace Crowd

These extra days have been provided so that everyone who desires can become eligible to vote May 5th and June 3rd.

Some Money Restored To Libraries

The Alabama Public Library Service has notified Cross Trails Regional Library personnel that a part of the vested funds for library services have been restored. This was good news to library people.

George Johnson, library administrator for Cross Trails, said the present appropriation would still be $6,059,75 less than last year but with good management good service should be maintained by each library in the system.

Library patrons are encouraged to write their congressmen and thank them for restoring the library funds. Every Alabama Congressman voted in favor of library support this time.

The first name is then removed from the list and the new participant adds his name to the bottom, makes copies and forwards the list to other persons.

The idea is to reap a large sum of money or prize as the person's name reaches the top.

Sims warned that such schemes, in addition to being illegal, always turn out so that the few who start them get back more than their investments, while others lose their money.

Participants may be prosecuted under the fraud and lottery laws, Sims said. He urged anyone receiving such a letter to notify local postal inspectors or Office of the Inspector in Charge, Chattanooga, Tenn. 37401.

State Director Hugh J. Caldwell Jr., has issued an Alabama April Induction call for 391 members, compared to the state's quota of 200 in March.

For children of all ages everywhere, games are common language. This concept is being put to good use by the men of the 4th Infantry Division in Vietnam. They have been using games to teach American customs to Montagnard children and as a means of getting closer to them and establishing contact. Tag, hopscotch, sing-alongs, swinging on swings and, especially, basketball, have proved big hits. "The kids catch on fast," says Specialist 4 Roger Armstrong of Rockford, Ill. "They pick up the rules and in no time are dribbling and faking like old pros." The Montagnard boys take turns showing the Americans their games, too. The international language of games seems to be a sure-fire way of bringing people closer together.

HELPS FOR HOGS

Here's another story on how American ingenuity is helping our Vietnamese friends. Over in Cam Ranh Bay, American civil affairs officers and veterinarians found the hogs being raised by the local Vietnamese to be of pretty poor quality. Result: American know-how and scientific knowledge were shared with local farmers for an improved product. The vets explain modern methods of hog raising, and they inspect animals for disease. Edible left-overs from Army mess halls give the hogs extra nourishment. Farmers have even formed themselves into a cooperative to pool their funds and resources. Size of the hogs - as well as profits - have all gone up.

AND WHY is it necessary for the former Alabama governor to, again, promise to pave the road between Florida and Winston. He promised to pave that road 12 years ago, he promised it again 8 years ago, he promised it again 4 years ago - and that road is now in a worse mess than it was to begin with.

But I'll have to give him some consideration as to the promise. Of course he should not have made the promise in the first place but he did. That road is not a state road. It is a county road and controlled by county commissioners. The money so I have been told, has been allocated but for some reason the road continues NOT to be paved.

But we still have people who expect the governor to get that road for them. It looks like some of us will never learn that to get it done is to go to the proper source and bear down.

GEORGE WALLACE is slipping. In Florida last week he said that Florida's city officials refused to cooperate with him was the reason he could not do anything more for us. He was referring to the improvements at Lake Jackson but said "We spent $40,000, anyone on Lake Jackson." If the state spent $40,000 on Lake Jackson they got short changed, for the lake did not receive that much benefit.

But he was wrong when he said the city officials would not cooperate with him - they did cooperate. The same mayor we have now was mayor then. But packing the blame off on our mayor and council is just another way he has of having an excuse for not doing anything in Florida. Florida was supposed to have gotten a trade school, remember, when he was elected governor in 1965. Where is Florida's trade school?

He also said the action taken by the executive committee in January changed the Democratic party rules to provide for appointment of presidential electors and convention delegates in other words he got back at him he says. He was wrong on that, also. The Democratic Executive Committee meeting in January left the elector and delegate races on an elective basis.

Apparently he is so desperate that he is telling all kinds of things expecting the people to believe it. He does not expect people to do any checking on these things themselves. He thrives on the ignorance of the voters. That is his salvation.

JUST ONE EXAMPLE of polls that have been made as to the governor's race is like one taken at Sanford University in Birmingham last week. Remember those students at Sanford are not Birmingham nor are they from town of Florida as well as from all over the state.

Anyway, the straw vote was a landslide for Governor Albert Brewer. The students gave Brewer 638 of the 780 votes cast. That was 82 per cent of the total. George Wallace was second with 78 votes, Charles Woods, 37 votes Ralph Price, 10, James E. Folsom, 8, Aca Carter, 4, and Coleman Brown, 2. A. C. Shotton, who says he will run as an independent in the gubernatorial election, received three votes on the ballot.

A similar poll was taken in Andalusia last week and the result was almost the same as the Sanford poll as to average and as to candidates.

AND WHY is it necessary for the former Alabama governor to, again, promise to pave the road between Florida and Winston. He promised to pave that road 12 years ago, he promised it again 8 years ago, he promised it again 4 years ago - and that road is now in a worse mess than it was to begin with.

PM GOING TO ENJOY things looking in my favor as to politics. I just may not get to AFTER the election, have been on the losing side so much I'm going to enjoy it while I can - it looks like a sure thing for my side this time, but I really think I will be on the winning side this time, for several different reasons. People are reading, studying, checking for themselves and when they do that they're apt to find out some things they wouldn't have believed possible.

For instance, take the tax situation we're hearing so much about. Suppose you check up who put the greatest part of our taxes in Alabama on the people. I could name them. They are are you brave enough to find out for yourself the amount of taxes that was put on the people of Alabama had control of the governor's office and the legislature?

REUNION ENJOYED BY CLASS OF 1949

A gala affair was the class reunion of Elba High School's graduating class of '49, held Saturday evening, March 14, in the high school cafeteria. Thirty-eight of the sixty who graduated in '49 returned to their Alma Mater for this happy event. Three of their teachers, Miss Zedie Rowe, Mrs. Althea Prescott and Mrs. Ola B. Kendrick, were among the invited guests. Class members, their husbands and wives, with the teachers attending, numbered a total of 75 present.

Mr. Marion Brunson, chairman of the planning committee was at the cafeteria entrance to extend a welcome to all as they arrived. Edna Sue McCollough Stinson presided over the guest book. Class members and teachers were asked to sign the two books presented to the school library in memory of Donald McCollough and Charles Martin, deceased graduates of '49. The books given were written and published by Mr. Marion Brunson. The book, "A Backward Look" contains much interesting history of Elba and Coffee County along with a fascinating record of the Brunson Family Reunions.

The buffet and guest tables were decorated with floral and candle arrangements of green and white. The class colors, an elaborate dinner was served buffet style. After all had served their plates, Rev. Paul Kendrick offered a prayer of thanks. At the conclusion of the meal, Mr. Marion Brunson expressed his warm welcome to those present. He spoke words of praise of the various committees, numbered a total of 75 present.

tribute to Rev. Ray Foreman and Rev. Paul Kendrick who entered the ministry in early manhood. Then, in a humorous vein, Mrs. Kendrick gave awards to Joel Murphree, of Tallahassee, Florida, for having traveled the longest distance to attend the reunion; Raymond Davis, of Florence, Alabama, for having lost the most hair; Edna Sue Stinson, Paul and Mavis Kendrick and Mable Bullard for being parents of the most children; Mary Young Padgett for being the parent of the youngest child; the Paul Kendricks and Patricia Flowers Johnson for being grandparents; to Dr. Leon Davis for having attained the highest in education and to Marion Brunson for having gained the most weight. As Mrs. Kendrick announced the winners in clever rhymes, Edna Sue Stinson presented to Joel Murphree a car; to Raymond Davis, a hat; to herself, the Paul Kendricks and Mabel Bullard, a pair of slippers; to Dr. Leon Davis, a set of ABC blocks; to Mary Young, a book on "Keeping in Shape"; and to Marion Brunson, a playtex giraffe.

Freddie Rainer and Jo Anne Thomson Rainer, Paul and Mavis Eddins Kendrick and Bill and Martha Wise Grimes were recognized as the class whose high school romance culminated in marriage. Edna Sue Stinson presented to each class member a typed booklet containing all information available concerning the 60 graduates. Only one of the 60 was completely unaccounted for. Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Crook provided appropriate background music. Mrs. Thelma McCollough and Mrs. Lora King prepared and served the delicious dinner.

TOMATO PROJECT
Alto Carr of the County Line Community and two of his fellow workers at Ft. Rucker are getting all set to plant an acre of tomatoes. His two helpers are Jack Gray and Leroy Lunsford. Lunsford works with Page and Gray works with the security guard company.

A few years back Carr won the 100 bushel corn award here in the county. He is a good farmer and I believe he is going to succeed with the tomatoes. It isn't unusual to gross $1,000 to $2,000 on an acre of properly handled tomatoes.

CATFISH PRODUCTION
S. L. Carpenter of Elba is one of the top producers of catfish in the county. Just recently he asked me to send him our newest publication on catfish production written by Earl F. Kenner, our fish and wildlife specialist. If you are interested in this bulletin, we have some copies and we will be glad to send one to you if you will let us know.

PLANTING PEANUTS

M. D. Bond, our peanut specialist at Auburn, emphasized several things at our New Brockton peanut meeting, but here are some of the most important things he said. "Plant on a firm moist seedbed. Unnecessary disking and stirring the soil just before planting results in loose, dry soil, irregular seed drop, and uneven crop emergence. Dry soils delay emergence of weeds until it is too late to control them with cracking time herbicide. Once the peanut crop is clean and free of weeds, plow shallow and deep plowing brings a fresh crop of weed seed to the surface where they will be a problem later in the season."

RAT PROBLEMS
Many people in the county have trouble with rats. In many cases the wharf rats are destroying a lot of feed and other items. According to some of the experts, one rat will do several dollars worth of damage in a year. For those of you who need help in controlling rats around your farm, contact Mr. Manuel Marler at the county health department in Elba and request him to help you. Just recently, Wallace McCall of Route One, Coffee Springs came by and Mr. Marler will help him rid of place or rats.

CORN PRODUCTION
April is corn planting time for Coffee County farmers. Water requirements for corn are highest in the spring. It is sizzling hot, and we know that the rainy weather usually occurs in the spring. Coffee County around July 1, so, it is important to plant varieties that will be in this stage or later.

Washington Report

by GEORGE ANDREWS
Member of Congress
Third District of Ala.

Tourists who come to Washington, D. C., this spring and summer will be visiting something more than the nation's capital; they will be seeing the nation's "crime capital" as well.

The city comes by its title legitimately, as the FBI's just released preliminary annual crime report proves. Its statistics tell a grisly tale of murder, rape, and robbery on an alarming scale.

Almost simultaneous with the report's release, showing Washington's serious crime rate increase at almost seven times the national increase, the House District Committee issued a stinging indictment of the city, its government, law enforcement officials, and citizens.

The committee called the District of Columbia a "crime-infested city." Never was a condemnation more justified. While the nation's crime rate increased 11 percent in 1969 over the previous year, Washington's rate jumped 27 percent. Its serious crime total rose from 49,360 in 1968, to 62,551 in 1969.

The city distinguished itself further by leading the nation in all categories of serious crime, and its averages exceeded those of similar size cities in murder, robbery, larceny, and burglary. It showed a 47 percent increase in murders alone.

Little wonder that residents will not walk the streets at night and are doing so less frequently in the daytime. They know that criminals are seldom punished in the District. They expect inaction by the police department, and that is what they get.

If District citizens are pessimistic, they have good reason to be. The District Committee reported that although the total number of felonies reported in Washington has more than doubled in the last five years, the percentage of cases solved has dropped by 50 percent, from 34.1 to 17.1 percent.

Despite hard facts to the contrary, District Mayor Walter Washington insists that Washington's crime situation is no worse than that of any other large city.

What can be expected of the police department when the city's mayor fancies that crime in the District is exaggerated? The 287 people who were murdered in Washington last year might disagree with him, if they were here to voice a protest. The omnibus crime bill reported by the committee is a tough one, and it ought to be. Among other things, it provides that all defendants 16 or older should be treated as adults in felony cases; criminals who have been convicted of three felonies may be sentenced to life imprisonment; defendants judged to be dangerous may be detained for up to 60 days prior to trial; and police will be allowed to enter a building or home without knocking. Every member of Congress should be adequately aware of the problem, because Washington's bold criminals operate in the very shadow of the Capitol.

In fact, on March 16, a life imprisonment defendant was viciously attacked and robbed right outside of the Congressional Hotel, where I live and located only a block and a half from the Capitol. Nor is it safer indoors. The night clerk in the same hotel has been robbed twice a crime program may help. Even in the face of an intolerable situation, we can expect bleeding hearts in Congress to oppose the present crime bill. However, I shall support it vigorously.

Washington, D. C., has been anything but the show-place city that it ought to be as the nation's capital. Pouring money into a crime program may help, but money alone will not do the job. The city's law enforcement agencies must actively apprehend and prosecute District criminals, and the courts must put them away.
